Hospital Uniforms

At ZAXO CLOTHING, we understand the type of hospital uniforms and designs that appeal to healthcare clients and support medical staff in their day-to-day activities with the anticipated professionalism.

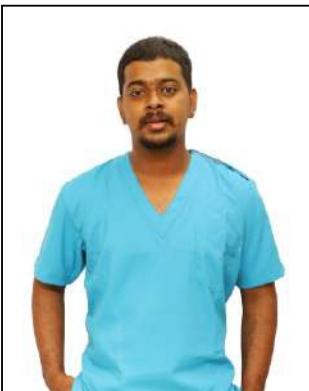

Medical uniforms, and especially nurse uniforms, ought to be functional but at the same time inspire confidence in an industry that deals with people issues and lives. Patients identify hospital employees such as nurses, doctors, and technicians, through their hospital uniforms and they associate white uniforms with competency and a certain level of trust. Today, with a developing healthcare industry, it is not uncommon to see medical staff dressed in colors other than white, including yellow, blue and pink, or plain muted shades.

Fabric for medical uniforms

Medical uniforms play a critical role in ensuring that hospital staff, including nurses and doctors, stay clear of infections during their daily interactions with patients. With this in mind, ZAXO CLOTHING pays close attention to the type of fabric used in producing garments for the healthcare sector. By using antimicrobial fabrics to make hospital uniforms, we help our clients' staff in preventing the spread of infections and diseases.
